

Senator R. Wagner Ends of Feud Albany Parley

As That Politics Be Laid
Aside and That Convention Delegates Think Only of Public Welfare

Raps Dowsey

Wagner Says Dowsey Speaks
Without Authority; Crane
Gives Opinion

Albany, N. Y., May 10 (AP).—U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner, president of the Albany convention, called today for an end to political bickering which have engulfed New York's constitution convention the past week.

"Let's lay politics aside and concern ourselves solely with the public welfare," the convention's Democratic minority leader said. "There is no reason why we can't easily proceed without partisan consideration unless, of course, some person wants to try to build himself up."

The senator made his plea after the Republican-controlled majority's latest political skirmish in which he accused a Republican delegate of making a "misleading" statement in criticizing his proposed amendment designed to spur low-cost housing projects through state loans to municipal corporations.

Wagner charged that James L. Dowsey, who last week said the senator's amendment showed a "typical New Deal disregard for the man who pays the bills," implied he spoke for the counties and towns committee when such was not the case.

Chairman of Committee.

Dowsey, whose home is in Manhattan, is chairman of the committee.

Wagner's plea for non-partisanship culminated one of several brief political flare-ups at last night's session, similar to those which interrupted convention proceedings last week.

Asks for Ruling

In criticizing Dowsey, the senator asked President Frederick E. Crane to rule on this question:

"Whether it is compatible with the duty of a chairman of a committee to which a proposal has been referred to make his report to the press, rather than to the convention, to make his report before hearings have been held, rather than thereafter, and, lastly, to report his private opinion, not as an individual delegate, but in the name of his committee?"

The senator said such "tactics" frustrate attempts to keep deliberations devoted to the merits and free from politics.

"I look to you, Mr. President, for an answer to my question that will fortify the determination with which we began, to lay party politics aside and concern ourselves solely with the public welfare," he said.

Crane's Reply

President Crane replied, "I cannot see how you can prevent any member of this body from expressing his opinion, the same as anybody else might do."

"Whether it is proper or not is a matter very largely of his own judgment," he added. "When he attempts to speak for anybody else but himself, that is another matter."

Republican Floor Leader Percy A. Pitcher, Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr., New Deal foe, and Republican Delegate Henry W. Koch, Seneca Falls, attempted to silence Wagner several times, arguing the point of inquiry should not be preceded by a "long speech."

The president finally permitted him to continue after warning him "to hurry to your point."

$45,000 Civil Action Against Montague Put Over Till Fall

Elizabethtown, N. Y., May 10 (AP).—A $45,000 civil action against John Montague, Hollywood golfer, has been put over until the fall term of Essex County Supreme Court.

Plaintiffs, who seek damages for assault, are Kin Hanna, owner of a roadhouse at Jay, N. Y., which was robbed in 1930, his wife, his father-in-law, Matt Cobb, and his daughter, Mrs. Naomi Beattie.

Montague was acquitted last October on charges of participating in the robbery.

British Drouth

London, May 10 (AP).—Rains in scattered sections checked drouth somewhat today, but very much of the British Isles the burning sun continued to spread its wreckage. The most favored points were Newcastle and Durham where a 72-day spell was ended by heavy rainfall. There also were light showers in some sections of Scotland and snow fell in the Shetland Isles.

Star Claims Attention

Williams Bay, Wis., May 10 (AP).—A star new to the astronomical charts claimed attention today because it may be the nearest one to the earth. The star's existence was disclosed by spectra obtained by Prof. G. P. Kuiper of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory here. It has been designated Wolf 424 and is of the 12th visual magnitude.

Duce Will Remain Neutral as Hitler Plans for Future

Italy Will Not Interfere in Nazi Ambitions for Expansion in Czechoslovakia and Ukraine

New York, May 10 (AP).—If Reichsfuehrer Hitler has ambitions to become overlord of Europe—a supposition which is worrying many chancelleries—then he has a right to feel that his conference with Mussolini in Rome has fostered this project.

Reaffirmation of friendship between the two dictators has given the Nazi chieftain assurance for the time being that Mussolini will at least remain neutral in event Germany tangles with France or Britain.

Of vital importance is the Duce's reported agreement not to interfere with any move Hitler may make in Czechoslovakia.

Control of this rich little democracy in some form or other spells power and also is the keystone of the much advertised Nazi program of expansion eastward.

Germany is credited both at home and abroad with intending to annex at least that part of the country occupied by the three and a half million German citizens—a quarter of the population. Europe would give a king's ransom to know just what Hitler told Mussolini about this.

Further east is that Russian treasure-house, the Ukraine. It has been common talk in Germany for years that the fatherland in due course would annex this great territory. A friendly Poland, and free passage through Czechoslovakia, would be essential for such a conquest.

It's safe to assume that Mussolini did not promise Hitler any help with Czechoslovakia, but only to keep hands off. However, that is all Hitler needs. Czechoslovakia's allies, France and Russia, have made it clear that they would intervene only in case Germany made a direct attack, and Britain doesn't intend to fight anywhere unless her own interests are involved.

Despite the renewal of friendship between Rome and Berlin, this can be said about the results of the conference: The prospects of general European peace have not been weakened—provided the democracies don't interfere with Hitler's program.

John Haynes Holmes, chairman of the New York city affairs committee, sent a letter to Chairman Harry E. Lewis of the convention's bill of rights committee.

Previously, Lewis announced receipts of scores of letters on the subject which has been before nearly all of the state's seven previous constitutional conventions. Those from citizens opposing the measures outnumbered those from proponents by more than three to one, he said.

Whether the Catholic Church would be represented remained uncertain.

The New York State Council of Churches (Protestant), said they would send spokesmen to the gathering.

An amendment proposing legalization of pari-mutuel betting supplanting the present method of oral bookmaking, will be introduced within a week or two by Democratic Delegate John J. Dunnigan, who has withheld submission so as to avoid having it linked with the other gambling proposals.

Death Ends Hard Luck Following Nunziata

New York, May 10 (AP).—Death has ended the hard luck that dogged Carlo Nunziata, 53-year-old cripple, for almost a quarter of a century.

Nunziata went to work for the city as an asphalt worker in 1915. He injured his leg, and it was amputated. He collected $3,000—$2,000 of it went to a lawyer—but never returned to work, figuring his job was gone.

For 23 years he lived in bitter poverty, doing odd jobs to support his wife and nine children.

In February Borough President Stanley E. Isaacs of Manhattan heard of his plight, investigated and told Nunziata a city job had been open to him all the years. Through an original clerical oversight, he had not been notified to report.

Overjoyed, Nunziata accepted a $1,200 a year watchman job. Then he fell ill of pneumonia. He died yesterday.

Churchill Offers Armed Peace for 10-Power Entente

Rebellious Tory's Plan Received Coolly by English Press—Suggests
Self-Help

London, May 10 (AP).—Britain's rebellious Tory, Winston Churchill, stepped forward today as the nation's new champion of international idealism and offered a plan for armed peace based upon League of Nations principles.

The fighting wartime chief of British sea forces, in a speech at Manchester last night, touched off a country-wide campaign to whip together a non-party movement dedicated to formation of a ten-power entente with the League of Nations as its guiding star.

The Manchester gathering was the first of a series under the guidance of the powerful League of Nations Union calling on the world—in Churchill's words—to "arm and stand by the covenant."

Churchill said he would like to see France and Britain "go to all the smaller states that have been deceived one by one by Nazi tyranny, and say to them 'We aren't going to help you if you aren't going to help yourselves. Are you prepared to take special service in defense of the covenant?'"

Possible Members

The states he listed as possible members of the entente were Yugoslavia, Rumania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey—with the way left open for aid from Soviet Russia in the event of war.

He expressed the belief that Italy also might cooperate eventually in such an alliance, adding "If we could get as far as that, the war danger would be removed perhaps for our lifetime and the United States would signal her encouragement and sympathy."

He scathingly condemned any peace pact with Germany which might return her war-lost colonies or result in muzzling the British press.

"That policy," he asserted, "is one which in my view would be disastrous and disastrous. In the first place it would lead us straight to war. We should holistically gagged, apparently consenting spectators to the horrors which would spread through central Europe."

The press gave the elder statesman's speech a cool reception, some reporting it curtly and others lengthily but buried among obituaries.

Plan $3,000,000,000 Pump Priming Bill Action Thursday

Administration Predicts Passage of Huge Relief and Public Measure by the House

Washington, May 10 (AP).—House passage by Thursday of a $3,000,000,000 relief and public works bill became the immediate goal today of administration leaders, intent on adjourning Congress by mid-June.

They decided to begin debate this afternoon, and predicted little opposition outside the Republican ranks.

The legislation, key item in the $1,500,000,000 pump-priming program, would end the practice of giving lump-sum relief appropriations to the President. It would return for him, however, the right to pass on all work relief and public works projects.

Outright appropriations of $2,519,125,000 are included. The Works Progress Administration would receive the largest share—$1,250,000,000—to provide 2,800,000 jobs from July 1 to next February 1.

The Public Works Administration, which would be extended to June 30, 1940, would be given $965,000,000 for construction projects.

Directing their activities toward an early end to the session, House chiefs arranged to interrupt the relief debate, probably tomorrow, to accept a compromise on the tax revision bill and send it to the White House. The Senate approved the tax legislation yesterday.

Speed Wage-Hour Bill

A movement to speed action on the wage-hour bill also picked up momentum. Two Republican members of the rules committee, Representative Mapes (R-Minn.) and McLean (R-N.J.), announced they would support a resolution by Chairman O'Connor (R-N.Y.) to permit the House to consider it even before the petition becomes effective May 23.

Their votes apparently were enough to assure the committee's approval of the resolution.

All regular appropriations bills have passed the House, and another one—a $1,104,000,000 measure for the agricultural department—went through the Senate yesterday.

A committee compromise on House and Senate versions of a billion-dollar naval expansion bill passed the House today on a 319-100 vote.

The bill, which would authorize a new shipyard in the United States, was passed by a 319-100 vote.

As the many-hued pageant, led by a ferocious dragon rumbling defiance of Japan, wound through Chinatown's narrow, crooked streets, six planes piloted by newly trained Chinese aviators drew overhead.

Bystanders pitched 20 pounds of coins into a Chinese republican flag, 100 feet long and 40 wide, carried by 160 pretty Chinese girls clad in form-fitting Chung King dresses—the long split-skirt native costumes.

Another Leg Found

Newford, N. Y., May 10 (AP).—Another severed leg, believed that of a woman, has been found floating in the Mohawk river. The leg was taken from Vischer's a short distance from the site where the first leg was discovered last Friday. An arm also covered last Friday. A police pathologist at the state police laboratory in Schenectady says the three are parts of the same body.

Cabinet Work on McCarthy

Hollywood, May 10 (AP).—Charlie McCarthy, the pinewood prodigy, walked like a man today as he was taken to a hospital. McCarthy's little dummy has been furnished with pliable legs and arms which move whenever he's jawed. As Charlie tells it, the operation was a harrowing one, taking place in the carpenter shop at Universal Studios where he is swapping calumnious retorts with Adolphe Menjou in a movie.

72 Miners Killed in Blasts At British Colliery Today, 49 Men Are in Hospitals

Two Violent Explosions in Derbyshire Occur as Commons Debates Such Dangers—Other Victims Sought

All Men Trapped

Entire Shift of Men Caught in Colliery—Village Scene of Great Desolation

Duckmanton, Derbyshire, England, May 10 (AP).—Seventy-two miners were killed, 49 were known to be injured and a number of others were entombed in the wrecked workings today after two violent gas explosions in the Markham coal mine.

While rescue squads searched underground for trapped victims, Captain H. F. S. Crookshank, minister for mines, informed the House of Commons of the disaster.

Through grim coincidence, the question of danger from explosions in mines was up before Commons as a result of Ellis Smith, Labourite, asking what was being done to prevent repetition of such blasts as the one last July at the Tyrnmo coal mine at Stoke-on-Trent when 27 miners lost their lives.

Sobbing women gathered around the pithead as the dead and injured were brought to the surface. Scenes were particularly grievous in the little nearby village of Duckmanton, a neat cluster of red brick cottages lying some distance from the mine.

Children whose fathers were in the pit gravely went to school.
One asked a teacher: "Please Miss, is it bad?"

Thirty-five injured were in the hospital at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

Scores of rescuers, stripped to the waist, fought through roof falls through the trapped mine.

Rescuers, with gas masks, reached up one section of the pit to prevent gas from seeping through to the trapped miners.

Second Explosion

The second explosion occurred shortly after 8 a. m., while injured from the first blast were being brought out.

The first blast about 6 a. m. caused heavy roof falls, and the nearby hospital was told to expect up to 100 casualties.

A dull rumbling followed by flashes of flame and clouds of dust signaled the first blast in a shale seam 2,550 feet deep as the night shift was preparing to come to the surface.

Telephone communication was maintained with the trapped men, and an adequate flow of air was being maintained.

The colliery is one of three owned by the Staveley coal and iron company. An explosion in one of the mines in January, 1937, killed nine men.

Expedition Against Amoy

Shanghai, May 10 (AP).—The Japanese navy today launched an expedition against Amoy, chief port of the southern coastal province of Fukien. Foreign dispatches said a Japanese naval force landed after heavy bombardments by 12 warships off shore and relays of bombing planes. The invaders came to grapple at once with the Chinese garrison.

Apple Blossoms in Storage

Batavia, N. Y., May 10 (AP).— Apple blossoms went into cold storage today to insure decoration for western New York's Apple Blossom Festival May 21.
Because apple trees have bloomed two weeks ahead of schedule, Genesee county growers feared no blossoms would be left for the fete at Le Roy.

Hollywood, May 10 (AP).—May Robson, veteran actress who recently observed her 71th birthday, was under a physician's care today. Her studio said she apparently suffered from pneumonia.
She is expected to be able to resume work later in the week.

Five Million Fish

Buffalo, N. Y., May 10 (AP).— Five million sock perch minnows were released in Lake Erie and Niagara river today as the first step in restoring a fish population decimated by pollution several months ago.

Suicide by Poison Verdict in Death of Mrs. Irene D. Booth

Wife of Ellenville Bank Employee Takes Own Life at the Home of Roger B. Tice

Irene Doolittle Booth, 27, estranged wife of Harold S.
Booth of 6 Park street, Ellenville, committed suicide by poisoning at the home of Roger B. Tice, 15 Center street, Ellenville, early this morning. An autopsy ordered by District Attorney Murray was performed at the Humiston funeral parlors in Ellenville by Drs. Taylor, Weeks and Coles, following which Coroner H. B. Humiston issued a certificate of suicide by poisoning.

Mrs. Booth left her husband and two small children some time ago. She spent some time at Bullville, Orange county, and later was at Grahamsville, about two weeks ago, according to Tice.
She came to his home and insisted on staying there.

Tice's story as told to Coroner Humiston, the district attorney and other officials, this morning, was that he and Mrs. Booth had been out Monday night and come home from the Shamrock Restaurant about 1:30 o'clock this morning. He said that Mrs.
Booth acted very restless and he retired to an adjoining room. A short time afterward he said he heard Mrs. Booth groaning, got up and went to her room and found her lying in bed with a partly emptied bottle of "Black Leaf 40" by her side. He picked up the bottle and looked at the label to see what it was and was said about an antidote for the powerful nicotine poison, then called Dr. John Weiss. It was shortly after three o'clock when Dr. Weiss reached the house, he found Mrs. Booth dead upon his bed.

Will Use E. Strand Property as Center For Freight Trucks

Newland Store Property Purchased by A. H. Buck for Hudson Motor Freight Service

An historic landmark has changed hands in the sale of the old Newland store property at 83 East Strand to A. H. Buck of Maple street, who will use the building as the Kingston terminal of the Hudson Motor Freight Service, Inc., of which he is the local agent.

The Newland building is a three-story brick structure and over a quarter of a century ago was one of the best known grocery businesses in the city. Painted on the brickwork over the entrance is still the old sign reading "S. Newland, Ship and Family Store". The entire lower floor was used in the grocery business and the two upper floors for living apartments.

Vacant for Years

The building has been vacant for many years. In 1915 a fire broke out in one of the living apartments on the second floor, and since then the building has been without tenants. Adjoining the structure was the old Ulster & Delaware railroad station, which was torn down some months ago when the other buildings in the railroad yards, including the machine shops and round houses were demolished.

Mr. Buck said today that he plans to use one-half of the lower floor for freight storage with the company's offices in two of the upper floors.

National Lottery Plan for Getting Soldiers in Army

San Francisco, May 10 (AP).— Details of a national lottery plan for conscripting citizens into the armed forces of the United States in wartime, were worked out here today by U. S. War Department officials and army officers.

Thirteen million men between 21 and 31 years of age would be summoned in the first draft, military officials disclosed.

Colonel V. J. O'Kellher and Major Lewis H. Hershey, both of the army general staff in Washington, headed a group of army authorities and army reserve specialists who met here yesterday for a four-day conference.

Their visit was to perfect in the seven western states the far-flung mechanism of the selective service plan for the next war.

Major Hershey said the draft would be conducted by an independent government agency, permitting the armed forces to concern themselves entirely with the enemy.

"We had to look for our men in the last war," he said. "But the program has been changed.
In the future, war will be fought by an organized nation, with the army and navy as instruments of policy."

Split Weakening Democrats

Washington, May 10 (AP).—The factional split in the Democratic party, in the opinion of Senator La Follette (Wis.), already has weakened "and now threatens to destroy" the effectiveness of President Roosevelt's leadership.

"What is left of the New Deal," La Follette said in a radio speech last night, "is in many instances honeycombed with office holders who are completely out of sympathy with its avowed aims."

He criticized Mr. Roosevelt for relying on "divided councils," asserted he had not been vigorous enough in opposing "reactionary Democrats," and said the administration's new spending program falls far short of needs.

The only place liberals can now go, the Senator said, is to the new progressive party proclaimed by his brother, Governor Philip La Follette of Wisconsin.

Senator La Follette has been a vigorous supporter of many Roosevelt proposals, and observers noted that he objected to the

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

A Hit
New York—Alfred Melor, 19, charged with disorderly conduct for playing ball in the street, had a good inning in court.

Dismissing the complaint, Magistrate Sylvester Sabatino said: "I played ball in the street and my kids play ball in the street. So do other kids, too, because they broke two of my windows last week and it cost me $1.75 to have them fixed."

Emergency

Columbus, O.—A woman ran from a sidewalk and hailed Officer Robert Bradford and Al Cooper as they cruised suburban Bexley in a patrol car.

"Quick, get that woman to a hospital," she squealed, pointing to a woman who stood on the sidewalk. The officers did their best, but that wasn't enough. A baby boy was born in the speeding car.

The mother, Bradford said, was Mrs. Cleo Mueller, 29, of Portland, Ore.

Button, Button

Boise, Idaho—John Mather wants one of Gov. Barzilla Clark's buttons.

He isn't particular—pants—vest—coat—shirt.

"It's just a hobby," he wrote Clark, collecting buttons from notables. Clark said he would furnish one.

Outside

Bellingham, Wash.—Judge John McGinn had a hard time of it when the defendant was accused of breaking a scarlet fever quarantine.

Judge McGinn suspended his 60-day sentence provided he stay home until cured.

Judge Uriah Milton Rose

Arkansas' First Citizen

When the state of Arkansas moved to make its first gift to the capitol's hall of fame, it chose a native of Kentucky for that honor, writes Leslie Hartley in the Washington Star. Uriah Milton Rose as a young man, however, followed the trend of his day to "go West" and moved to Arkansas. There he became known as the state's "first citizen."

Though born in 1834 of a wealthy family, Rose was orphaned when he was fourteen years of age and, the family fortune having been spent, went to work as a clerk in a store. At night he studied law and later became a charter member of the American Bar association and its president in 1901.

Arkansas also called Rose the "Friend of Presidents." When he was chosen to entertain President Theodore Roosevelt during the latter's visit to Arkansas a strong friendship between the two developed. Roosevelt often remarked that Judge Rose, who was widely traveled, had the "wisdom of Socrates" and in 1907 appointed him as one of the delegates to the Second Palace Tribunal at The Hague.

Judge Rose's last contribution to his state was made after his death in 1913, when his library of 8,000 rare volumes was given to the public library in Little Rock.

Legion Auxiliary Drives Ahead on Poppy Day Plans

Preparations for the observance of Poppy Day, Saturday, May 23, are being completed by Kingston unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Christopher P. Roche, unit president, announced today. Arrangements are being directed by Mrs. Herman Dubs, chairman of the Poppy Day committee, assisted by a large corps of workers from the unit. Plans are being developed to distribute memorial poppies in every part of the city.

"Honor the World War dead and aid the war's living victims," is the meaning of the memorial poppy," said Mrs. DuBois. "The poppy, which bloomed so strikingly among the trenches and battle graves in France and Belgium, became the flower of the dead during the war. Ever since the war it has been worn in all English-speaking countries annually as an individual tribute to the men who gave their lives in the conflict."

"The little red flower takes added significance from the fact that it is made by the war disabled, and that it contributes to the welfare of the disabled men and the dependent families of veterans. Everyone who wears a poppy on Poppy Day not only is showing a remembrance and honor for the men who died in the war, but is giving help to those who still are bearing the burden of the war in suffering, privation and lost opportunities. All contributions made for the flower will go to support the rehabilitation and welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary, which means so much to the disabled veterans and the families of the dead and disabled."

STATE TRADE BARRIERS

From the narrow nationalism that impels nations to erect trade barriers against their neighbors, we Americans seem to be proceeding to what might be called "statism".

Several of our states in the last few years have sought to bar people and products of other states. The idea is to insure a home market for home products and home jobs.

The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce has undertaken to urge upon the people in its territory the consumption of meat produced in Ohio. This is done in cooperation with farm organizations in the state. It is urged that Ohio cities should prefer Ohio farm products, just as farmers should prefer the manufactured goods of Ohio cities.

This looks reasonable until you take a general, long-range view. What would happen if all the states of the Union adopted such a policy? Wouldn't our interstate trade, vital alike to national and local prosperity, be destroyed? Leading American statesmen have seen this from the beginning. It was not for nothing that the Constitution established free trade among the states.

BIBLE REVISION

A group of distinguished theologians has begun work on a new revision of the Bible to give "an official version embodying the best results of modern scholarship." The work is undertaken by the International Council of Religious Education and is expected to take five years. It is the first revision since publication of the American Standard version in 1901.

Dr. William A. Irwin of the University of Chicago, one of the twelve scholars engaged in the work, explains that present-day knowledge of the Hebrew and Greek languages "enables us to understand more truly the thought of original writers." The revisers hope to put that thought into words which readers can understand better than they do some of the "obscure if not actually unintelligible" words and phrases of the King James version.

"When the King James version was produced," says Dr. Irwin, "it was a great achievement of biblical scholarship, and it continues one of the literary treasures of our language, counting as it does from the age of Shakespeare and Milton." That literary treasure will remain, unharmed by any number of revisions aimed at modern clarity.

New versions are necessary and useful, but until one is written which surpasses the King James bible in literary beauty and value, they will be merely supplementary and clarifying texts.

UNTIDY COUNTRY

An American who has just traveled across the country, from California to New York, with an English friend, reports as follows regarding the effect our scenery had on her guest:

"All the way I tried to point out to her the beauties of the country. She graciously acknowledged that there were colorful deserts, lovely sunsets, beautiful trees, fine rivers. But I am sure that her memory of her journey is a composite picture of automobile cemetries, rubbish heaps, hideous railway stations and sidings, tumbledown shanties, filthy back yards and, above all, of refuse dumps everywhere. She was astounded at the thousands of abandoned motor cars and empty tin cans, and asked plaintively: 'Why are Americans so wasteful and untidy?'"

Why, indeed? Many of us have asked the same question. The English are not like that, as anyone may see in beautiful and orderly England. Even the Canadians, nearer us in locality and character, are not like that.

LABORATORY PLANE

A real flying laboratory, one of the few in existence, is going here and there about the country, seeking weather that regular transport planes avoid, making tests and discovering ways to eliminate certain dangers.

The laboratory is a standard type transport plane except for the cleared cabin in which instruments and a work bench replace seats for passengers. Some of the things tested on recent flights are a new type of airway marker beacon and a method of eliminating the static that is built up on plane surfaces during flight. The latter purpose was attained by use of a trailing wire which permits the harmless discharge of static accumulations into the air and reduces interference with radio reception in the pilot's cockpit.

An amazing lot of aviation problems have been solved by testing devices for model planes and by mathematics and aeronautical designing indoors. Much, however, can be done only as a result of practice tests and experience in the air.

MISSION DAMAGES

The Japanese government has just received another itemized bill for damages. It is presented by the Southern Methodist Church for ruined mission properties in China. Twenty-four buildings of this property are said to be in ashes and the rest damaged to some extent. The estimated loss is close to $500,000. This is the first official damage claim made by a church missions board. Other denominations are considering similar action.

Here is a call for restitution which the Japanese probably did not expect. War is ruthless and destructive of everything in its path, property as well as human life. If war is ever justified, such destruction must also be justified. The Chinese, fighting back in defense of their own land, doubtless have caused much destruction on their part. These damage claims against Japan by a church group therefore do more than ask for justice to the church. They serve also as direct accusations of aggression and put full blame for their distress on the aggressor government.

Hitler is building a stadium at Nuremberg to seat 405,000 people. He could save money by broadcasting to 'em in their homes, but then he wouldn't hear the applause.

It was said of Hamlet, "Much thought hath made him mad." We're all Hamlets now, and the more we think the madder we get.

Mussolini's expensive reception for Hitler pleases the Germans and is another Rome circus for the Italians.

THE NEW INSULIN FOR DIABETICS

When Drs. Banting and Best, of Toronto, discovered insulin, and Dr. Collip, now of Montreal, made it safer to use, it was felt that all had been learned about insulin in the treatment of diabetes. Many research workers then began experimenting with insulin in the treatment of other ailments such as lack of appetite, dementia praecox (persistent dream state) and others.

In the treatment of diabetes, however, research workers sought to prepare insulin in such a way that it could be taken by mouth instead of by the hypodermic needle three times a day. While no method of preparing insulin so that it will be effective taken by mouth has been discovered, what is lacking is the situation to some extent is the new treatment by protamine zinc insulin. I have spoken before of this treatment and its advantages and disadvantages as recorded by physicians doing special work in diabetes.

What would, on first sight, be considered a most unfavorable result from the use of this new insulin compound is the apparent increase in the number of cases of diabetes. Dr. E. P. Joslin, Boston, whose name has been associated with diabetes for many years—long before insulin was discovered—points out in the Michigan State Medical Journal that protamine zinc insulin has probably increased the number of diabetic patients using insulin by 70,000. This is due almost entirely to the fact that the new insulin is injected three times a day, a regulation that many diabetics would not or could not follow.

Dr. Joslin also answers the criticism of some unthinking individuals who state that there are now more diabetics than before the discovery of insulin. The apparent increase in numbers is due to (a) a more systematic search for diabetes and the closer medical supervision of the population in general, (b) many more people now live beyond the age of 40 years when the onset of diabetes is twice as frequent as it is up to the age of 40, and (c) diabetics live longer than they used to.

One of the mistakes made in the use of the new insulin is in giving it too often or in doses that are too large, because it seems to act so slowly. Dr. Joslin says "A diabetic patient has twenty years or more ahead of him and one need not hurry."

The Rondout Valley Chamber of Commerce organized in Ellenville with 30 paid-up members. Mrs. Labertus B. Doyle of Port Ewen died.

Death of David T. O'Brien of Stony Brook. Congregation of Fair Street Reformed Church tendered the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Frank B. Seelye a reception in honor of Dr. Seelye's 30th anniversary as pastor of the church.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The story so far: Quammet is aroused when his citizens are caricatured in the post office mural. The next night, the artist's wife, unscrupulous Marina Lorne, is murdered. Her sister, Pamela Lorne, whose tent is killed Marina, appeals to Asay Mayo, Cape Cod detective. She tells him she found $50,000 worth of ambergis on the shore. After Pam threw the lump back into the surf, Marina agreed to drive Pam and the ambergis into Boston for $5,000. But somehow Pam knew Marina was planning to keep the ambergis for herself.

Chapter Four

Mysterious Eavesdropper

"I DECIDED," Pam went on, "to get home as quickly as I could and tell Father, and somebody else—I sort of decided on this boarder named Carr who came today with his grandmother. He's a teacher, around 30, and an awfully decent sort. I also wanted to get the stuff to Boston, pronto."

"What did you tell Sister?" "I said, as if in a burst of light, and then tell Father that I was driving up to Boston with Mary Kean. She has a flower shop and often drives up to the florists' narrower into taking the stuff to Boston in his coupe. And I found a note on the door, saying they'd go to a clam bake, and the movies later. Shall I pass over the dismal hours till eleven o'clock?"

"What did you do? Why didn't you snake the ambergis out of the garage?" Asay demanded. "I would have, I would have."

"So would I, but Asay, do you know Aunt Nettie Hobbs? She keeps the Woman's Exchange. She came, Asay, to call. She came as I finished reading the note and was just starting for the wheelbarrow. I could not get rid of her. I have never been so mortally rude to any living person. And she stayed. I couldn't tell her naturally. It'd be like inviting the world to share my ambergis. I couldn't leave her—although I did, once, around nine o'clock. I whipped over to the garage and the ambergis was still there. It was then that I said the garage doors of their house—I knew. She couldn't get 'em out. You help. That was my one and only hope, that Sister, in her general greed, wouldn't tell anyone. And Nettie stayed. She left at ten-thirty. She told me, in parting, I didn't seem myself a bit. Asay, can you figure Nettie's story when this breaks? That alone'll hang me. The second she disappeared down the road, I grabbed the barrow and legged it to the garage. And there, on the floor—there was Sister. Staring up—oh, that—that face, Asay!"

"And the ambergis?"

"It was there," Pam said. "There, in the beach wagon. Just as we left it. And I looked at it, and I looked at her. And I thought of the things she'd done. She broke Mother's heart. Asay, Mother never got over that—well, I won't go into it. She took every cent Father had, literally, when she first ran away from town. She stole his first editions, the pride of his life, and pawned them. But mostly the things she'd done were things you couldn't put into figures. She did something to Father that he never got over. Something to his pride. The more I thought of what she'd done, the more I didn't feel sorry for what had happened. That sounds inhumanly hard. I suppose it is. But little sister had to live in the dreags of what Marina left behind. That's enough to make you a little thingum, I think. And the irony of it got me, too. He couldn't even die, I thought, without a last fl-

And there was Sister—staring up!

blow at us—for how could I take the ambergis then?"

"You Did It!"

"I did, because I knew I'd never have a chance to get it later. I took it. Then I phoned the state cops. We had the phone put in again this morning. We can only afford it when we have had to. I told the cops to come to Octagon House, then I dashed back to the garage. Jack Lorne was there, in the most terrific frenzy I ever saw. He pointed his finger at me and said, 'You did it. It's your knife—I hadn't even noticed that before. Asay, but, you're my knife. You did it. Jack yelled. 'You're jealous of her, always. It's your knife! I've called the police and told them so I've told them you're the murderer!'"

Pam lighted another cigarette. "And when he said that word, murderer, all of a sudden I thought of you. I suppose I connected you with murders. Anyway, I raced out of the garage. He tried to follow me, but I tripped him. I cut through the woods until I was so breathless I had to stop. I was just behind Chases. I sneaked into their barn and stole Billy Chase's bike, and pedaled over here. I hid the—"

"Wait," Asay said softly, in her ear. "What kind of cigarettes are those you're smoking? American?"

"Yes, have one? I did."

Asay's hand went over her mouth. "You pedaled here, did you? Quite a ride."

Pam listened in bewilderment as Asay, his hand still covering her mouth, casually chatted on about his feat of bicycling over. He was stuffing the air, and automatically Pam sniffed, too. She understood then.

He had caught, before she had, the whiff of Turkish tobacco smoke that meant that someone was near. He had been listening to every word. That someone, very near, was waiting for her to tell where she had hidden the ambergis.

Is Pam in danger? Don't miss tomorrow's chapter.

May 7, 1897, the funeral took place at Phoenixia of Cornelius C. Winne, 81, one of the best known hotel men in the Catskills.

Mr. Winne at one time kept the stage tavern at Boiceville, at the present John McKelvey place, and for many years he conducted the four-horse stage route between Rondout and Delhi—one of the longest routes of its kind in the state. He married for his first wife a daughter of Peter Boice of Shokan, and one of his sisters was the late Mrs. Jimmie Elmdorff of Olive.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cordes of Glen Rock, N. J., called on friends in the village Sunday. Mrs. Cordes is the former Margaret Krockeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Nadal, of Kingston, spent Sunday at the B. Nadal farmhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olsen of Brooklyn are reported to have

I couldn't leave her—although I did, once, around nine o'clock. I whipped over to the garage and the ambergis was still there. It was then that I said the garage doors of their house—I knew. She couldn't get 'em out. You help. That was my one and only hope, that Sister, in her general greed, wouldn't tell anyone. And Nettie stayed. She left at ten-thirty. She told me, in parting, I didn't seem myself a bit. Asay, can you figure Nettie's story when this breaks? That alone'll hang me. The second she disappeared down the road, I grabbed the barrow and legged it to the garage. And there, on the floor—there was Sister. Staring up—oh, that—that face, Asay!"

"And the ambergis?"

"It was there," Pam said. "There, in the beach wagon. Just as we left it. And I looked at it, and I looked at her. And I thought of the things she'd done. She broke Mother's heart. Asay, Mother never got over that—well, I won't go into it. She took every cent Father had, literally, when she first ran away from town. She stole his first editions, the pride of his life, and pawned them. But mostly the things she'd done were things you couldn't put into figures. She did something to Father that he never got over. Something to his pride. The more I thought of what she'd done, the more I didn't feel sorry for what had happened. That sounds inhumanly hard. I suppose it is. But little sister had to live in the dreags of what Marina left behind. That's enough to make you a little thingum, I think. And the irony of it got me, too. He couldn't even die, I thought, without a last fl-

blow at us—for how could I take the ambergis then?"

"You Did It!"

"I did, because I knew I'd never have a chance to get it later. I took it. Then I phoned the state cops. We had the phone put in again this morning. We can only afford it when we have had to. I told the cops to come to Octagon House, then I dashed back to the garage. Jack Lorne was there, in the most terrific frenzy I ever saw. He pointed his finger at me and said, 'You did it. It's your knife—I hadn't even noticed that before. Asay, but, you're my knife. You did it. Jack yelled. 'You're jealous of her, always. It's your knife! I've called the police and told them so I've told them you're the murderer!'"

Pam lighted another cigarette. "And when he said that word, murderer, all of a sudden I thought of you. I suppose I connected you with murders. Anyway, I raced out of the garage. He tried to follow me, but I tripped him. I cut through the woods until I was so breathless I had to stop. I was just behind Chases. I sneaked into their barn and stole Billy Chase's bike, and pedaled over here. I hid the—"

"Wait," Asay said softly, in her ear. "What kind of cigarettes are those you're smoking? American?"

"Yes, have one? I did."

Asay's hand went over her mouth. "You pedaled here, did you? Quite a ride."

Pam listened in bewilderment as Asay, his hand still covering her mouth, casually chatted on about his feat of bicycling over. He was stuffing the air, and automatically Pam sniffed, too. She understood then.

He had caught, before she had, the whiff of Turkish tobacco smoke that meant that someone was near. He had been listening to every word. That someone, very near, was waiting for her to tell where she had hidden the ambergis.

Is Pam in danger? Don't miss tomorrow's chapter.

SHOKAN

May 7, 1897, the funeral took place at Phoenixia of Cornelius C. Winne, 81, one of the best known hotel men in the Catskills.

Mr. Winne at one time kept the stage tavern at Boiceville, at the present John McKelvey place, and for many years he conducted the four-horse stage route between Rondout and Delhi—one of the longest routes of its kind in the state. He married for his first wife a daughter of Peter Boice of Shokan, and one of his sisters was the late Mrs. Jimmie Elmdorff of Olive.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cordes of Glen Rock, N. J., called on friends in the village Sunday. Mrs. Cordes is the former Margaret Krockeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Nadal, of Kingston, spent Sunday at the B. Nadal farmhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olsen of Brooklyn are reported to have

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

By Mary Graham Bonner

"I THINK," quacked Mr. Quacko, "that we should all get some strong twigs and dig with them, as well as with our feet."

"That's a good idea," answered young Quacko. So he, and some of the other ducks gathered strong twigs from around their pond and then they all began to dig once more.

"I wonder if we'll find old coins," quacked Mr. Quacko.

"Or new money," quacked little Yellow Beak.

"It couldn't be very new as it must have been there some time," quacked Mr. Quacko.

"Maybe we'll find some old jewelry," quacked Mrs. Quacko. "It could wear a necklace when I got to call on Mrs. Quacko—that is if we find a necklace."

"Perhaps we'll find an old chest full of gold," quacked Quackles.

"The hidden treasure is an old chest," quacked Mr. Quacko. "It must be deep, deep down in the muddy bottom, where I got to call on Mrs. Quacko—that is if we find a necklace."

"The treasure is sure to be far down or we would have noticed it before," quacked Quackles.

"That's what I meant when I said that if it were a chest it would be deep in the muddy bottom. We would have struck a chest before if it had been near the top," quacked Mr. Quacko.

"It's a wonder the elephants didn't walk on it," quacked little Yellow Beak.

"They may have," quacked Mr. Quacko, "and pushed it down even further."

They all agreed that this was very likely, and now they stopped their quacking talk and worked in earnest with their twig tools.

May Dances Have Interesting Tales

All five of the dances to be given at the Elementary School May 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, are of interest to the New York State Army on Manhattan Avenue have interesting stories connected with them.

The Norwegian Mountain March, the folk dance which will be given by the fifth grade girls of schools 2 and 3, is supposed to represent a party of mountain climbers in the high mountains of Norway. They are roped together for safety and the guide goes ahead to show them the hard places and to give aid when necessary. The rope is represented by the colored handkerchiefs the dancers hold in their hands. The illusion of the guide followed by the timid climbers depends on the ability of the dancers.

Sellers' Round, which will be danced by the fifth grade girls from schools 5 and 7, is one of the earliest traditional May Day dances. The origin is lost in antiquity but it is known that it was popular at the time of Queen Elizabeth. It is also known as "The Beginning of the World" and seems to have been the favorite tune among villagers for their dance around the pole itself. It will be given on Wednesday in its original form with the dancers wearing traditional English costumes.

The boys and girls of grades 4 and 5 from all eight schools will join in presenting "The Lancers," an American folk dance. Forty seven sets will be used with four couples on a set. There is something joyous in the square dances which were done in barns and halls all over the United States and Canada from Colonial days until the turn of the century. These dances followed more or less the same form but varied as to the steps and moods with the locality where they were danced. The dances were seldom written but were done as the caller remembered them. This accounts for the variations in some of them. A few years ago Henry Ford collected the best forms of some of the standard dances in a little book called "Good Mornings." It is from this book that "The Lancers" was selected for the May Day program.

Captain Jinks is also an old dance. There is also a square dance by the same name and to the same music, but the one that will be given by the boys and girls from the fifth grades of schools 4, 5, and 8 is a folk dance. The Pirate Quadrille will be danced by the social dancing class of School No. 6. Twenty dancers will take part in this dance from the picture "Dancing Pirate." The dance fits very well into the new popularity of Latin American steps and was one which was introduced during National Dance Week, April 28-May 3, 1936.

The May Pole Dances are always the crowning part of any May Day celebration. There are many ways of winding a May pole. The two that will be used by the girls of the sixth grades in the city will be the Spider Web, and the Braid.

The program, which is the school's contribution to the Apple Blossom Festival will start promptly at 2 o'clock and will begin with the grand march led by the Elementary School Band. All parents and friends interested in Kingston's first Elementary School May Day in which 1,450 children from the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades will take part are invited to attend. A collection will be taken to defray the expense of the costumes.

West Point Organ Recital

The second organ recital of the spring series in the Cadet Chapel, West Point, will be held on next Sunday afternoon, May 15, beginning promptly at 3:30 p. m. The assisting soloist will be Lucie Bigelow Rosen, who will play that novel and mysterious electrical instrument, the theremin. She has appeared extensively on both sides of the Atlantic as an accomplished expert of the theremin, having given recitals in Munich, Budapest, Rome, Oslo, etc. Her numbers will include a charming "Pastorale," by Corelli, arranged by Godowsky, and "To the Spring," by Grieg.

The organist, Frederick C. Mayer, will play, among other numbers, the "Pilgrims Chorus," from "Tannhauser," MacDowell's "To a Water Lily," and Widor's "Prelude to the 2nd Symphony." Parking of cars in the vicinity of the Chapel will be permitted for this event. The program will be over in good time for dress parade by the Corps of Cadets, which will occur at 5:30 p. m. The recital is free to the public, and all lovers of music are invited to attend.

Delegates Report Y. W. Convention

At the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Board of Directors held on Monday evening, Mrs. John B. Sterley and Miss Jean L. Eley, general secretary, reported on the National Y. W. C. A. convention at Columbus, O., which they attended as official delegates of the local Y. W. C. A.

This convention was the largest ever held by the national organization, there being more than 2,100 voting and visiting delegates from the U. S. with representatives also attending from the Y. W. C. A.'s of England, Switzerland, China, Japan, Syria, Mexico, and Hawaii.

Three main subjects were emphasized during the convention, namely, religion, democracy and leadership, and it was felt that the strengthening of the association along these three essential lines would be a contributing factor toward the great task of our era—the building of a better world community. Many prominent leaders and speakers were on the program including Mrs. Robert L. Spear, honorary president of the Y. W. C. A. National Board; Mrs. Frederick M. Paist, acting president; Mrs. Austin Kimball, president of the National Y. W. C. A.; Dr. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago; Dr. John B. Thompson of Norman, Okla.; Miss Ruth Woodsmall, general secretary of the World Y. W. C. A.; and many others. One of the most thrilling events was the special broadcast to the convention from Mme. Chiang Kai Shek of China, who directly addressed the assembled delegates from Shanghai.

Both Mrs. Sterley and Miss L. Eley reported that in addition to receiving many practical suggestions regarding the work of the Y. W. C. A. they returned with a stronger feeling of the value of such a world-wide organization of girls and women.

FUN TO LEARN TO DANCE AT HOME: DIAGRAMS EXPLAIN POPULAR STEPS

Good Dancers Know Their Basic Steps

Confident, graceful, light of foot! Donna and Jack alight spin through the waltz, avoiding the tangled steps and bumping knees which make Phil and Joan so laughable. Good dancing is simple. Once you master the basic steps you can easily add gay frills and hesitations.

Diagrams like the one for the basic waltz in the picture clearly explain these steps, make it easy to teach yourself fox-trot, rumba, shag, other popular dances. Fun, you say, to learn dancing this way—safe from critical eyes. Turn to a waltz on your radio. On Count 1, step forward with left foot. 2, Step diagonally forward with right. 3, Slowly draw left foot to right. 4, Back with right foot. 5, Back diagonally with left foot. 6, Draw right foot to left.

So you'll glide gracefully instead of comically bobbing up and down, take a long step on the first beat of each measure. Slightly flex the supporting knee. Now you're ready for smart variations, for the tricky turns which make you a hit on the dance floor.

Remember to keep a little to the right of your partner, place your left hand on his upper arm or shoulder. He puts his right hand below your left shoulder blade, holds you firmly as you'll quickly respond to his lead. No danger of stepped-on toes if you

Blind Workers Planning Sale

Mrs. Ada LaMonte Howell, director of sales for the blind, has in Kingston recently in the best of hundreds of blind workers who have been trained to be useful articles and who depend on the sale of this merchandise for their self support. The churches of Kingston have united to help this worthy cause by holding a sale the first part of June. Many of the committees take advance orders and this feature of the work in Kingston has always made the sales very successful in the past. In the near future a meeting will be called to plan for the sale.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—It's just dawning on us that Hollywood has a new movie clothes-horse—a girl who's all set to take over where Kay Francis leaves off. It's Kay Francis who's off when she marries in the fall.

And a happy clothes-horse is Loretta Young, who doesn't like to think of herself as one at all.

"Well," she says, "it just happens I've been playing a number of very rich girls—and presumably smart ones who'd wear smart clothes."

All the same, at any Loretta Young preview, the gasps of the women in the audience are as audible as the occasional masculine titters whenever Loretta pops up in a new outfit. At "Four Men and a Prayer" the other evening the Young wardrobe included a change for every sequence in which Loretta appeared—and some of those outfits seemed especially funny to some of us. Especially that one that included a hat that was a hat but might have been an inverted cookie-cutter.

Must Be Different

Kay Francis doesn't bother much about clothes off screen, but Loretta has even more than the usual feminine interest.

"That was a smart hat," she laughs. "It wasn't a movie hat either. I bought it myself at a local store—and I saw one like it, even before the preview, on a woman dancing at La Conga. And remember how they laughed at that pancake hat Garbo wore in one of her pictures—within a month women everywhere were wearing hats like it!"

Loretta holds that "picture clothes" have to be "different." If they're "different" enough, and smart, they make talk, and talk makes interest. But she doesn't pretend to be a style leader.

Buying Sprees

Many a woman would envy Loretta's shopping habits. Whenever she gets a "clothes" role she can go on a spree. She picks out things she thinks will do—and if the studio approves, she rents out her new wardrobe at so much per day. One of the amusing scenes in "Four Men" sprang wholly from the Young wardrobe. Rehearsing a scene in which she wore a heavily fur-trimmed coat, Loretta told the "butler" who would have taken her coat: "It's a dress."

Everybody on the set laughed, and John Ford ordered the line left in. The audience is left guessing, but I have Loretta's word for it that the thing really is a coat.

Standard Bearers Meet.

Highland, May 9.—Miss Dorsetta Bradshaw was hostess to the meeting of the Standard Bearers at her home Wednesday evening. This group of seven young ladies is formed as a missionary society. Mrs. S. A. MacCormac is the counselor for them.

The organization was formed last September with Dorsetta Bradshaw as president; Loretta Sickle, vice president; Loretta Tubbs, secretary; Alvia Smith, treasurer. The meetings are held each month. Other members are Clara Cunningham, Frances Albertson, Evelyn Wood. At the time of organization the members were given mite boxes and these were returned on Wednesday with the program built around them. On Saturday, May 14, the young ladies will hold a bake sale at 2 o'clock in the Willcox store. Next Tuesday evening several of the members will attend the meeting to be held in New Paltz.

Philatelic Meeting.

Highland, May 9.—Oliver J. Tillson arranged a series of 10 questions pertaining to stamps which were used at the Mid-Hudson Philatelic Society meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Florence Morrissey in Walden. The members discussed having a picnic for the first meeting in June. Plans for this will be taken up at the next meeting to be held with Miss Marguerite Smith.

At the last meeting the officers now serving were re-elected as follows: Miss Marguerite Cook, president; Troy Cook, vice president; Oliver J. Tillson, secretary and treasurer. Present at Wednesday's meeting were Miss Cook, Troy Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Eber Smith, Miss Marguerite Smith, Miss Martha Benesh, Mrs. DuBois Grimm, Miss Morrissey, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Tillson.

Recent Weddings

Several weddings have taken place during the past month beginning with that of Robert E. Sheehan of Chicago to Miss Irene Miller of Reading, Pa. The ceremony took place on April 10 at the Presbyterian manse and was performed by the Rev. D. S. Haynes. The attendants were Elsie V. Miller and Fred B. Miller.

Edwin Bastion and Miss Betty Williams were married on April 16, by Justice of the Peace U. Parker Decker. The attendants were M. Williams and George Williams.

Ignazio Trapani and Miss Teresa Traina were married by Father Charles Russell on April 26 with Vincent Tagharino and Angelina Trapani as the attendants.

The marriage of Earl George Rau of New Paltz to Miss Helen Bay of Cantonville took place in Brooklyn on May 7, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. John F. Baumann, a Lutheran clergyman. The attendants being Peter Bayer and Lydia Bayer. The license was procured in the town of Lloyd. Charles F. O'Connor and Miss Louise Peckham were married on May 2, by Justice of the Peace U. Parker Decker with Jane M. Becker and Alva R. Chase of Kent, Conn., as the attendants.

Boy Scout Camp Staff Increased

Fred Van Voorhis, chairman of the Camp Committee of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced today that they have secured two more men for the camp staff. Dean Shoup, a graduate of New Paltz Normal and a former worker at the camp, will have charge of the nature study and Joe Compton, formerly a member of Troop No. 74, of New Paltz will be the director of the Indian Village. "Joe" is known by the Scouts as an Eagle Scout and member of the New Paltz Troop for nearly seven years and he has been one of the campers at Camp Half Moon since it began in 1932. At present Joe is a student of the New York State School of Forestry at Syracuse University.

Camp-o-Ree Plans Near Completion

Final plans for the second annual Camp-o-Ree for the Boy Scouts of Ulster and Greene counties are rapidly being completed. To date over 400 Scouts are planning to attend with many other units expected to register before the middle of the month.

One of the features of this second annual affair will be the big parade on Saturday afternoon in which there will be floats, bands, etc. Already the Lions Club band of Kingston and the Tannersville High School band are expected to participate and it is expected that other bands will announce their intentions during the coming week.

The committee in charge of the Camp-o-Ree this year said that from the present indications the Camp-o-Ree this year will find more than 100 more Scouts participating than was had last year. The dates for the Camp-o-Ree this year are Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 2-4-5.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—It's like this: You are walking along the street and you meet people, and they tell you things.

That little man with the big eyes and the black hair bouncing out of the Cafe de la Paix is Eddie Cantor. He has come over to the St. Moritz for a conference with Eddie Davis, his script writer. Davis is one of the highest paid script writers in the business. Yet, there was a time when he wondered where the next quarter was coming from.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR 3rd is getting about. He seems moody and bored. I saw him at the circus, in a box, yawning while the serialists were making me border on apoplexy. And then again at a night club, sitting with Merle Oberon, the actress, and Frank Shields, the tennis player. Astor didn't seem to be having a very good time, although the others seemed to be enjoying themselves very much.

This man with the bushy eyebrows is a representative of the American Express company. "You wouldn't think there could be much humor among thieves," he says, "but listen to this."

And he tells an astounding story. The other day a package was delivered to an executive of his company. It was a batch of travelers' checks which had been stolen with a lot of money and other loot.

BUT it is very unhealthy to try to cash stolen travelers' checks. Those little serial numbers frequently lead to Alcatraz. So the thieves bundled the checks into a nice big roomy envelope and returned them. With this little note: "Oops! So sorry!"

We got to talking about the men, some of them noted criminals, who are now behind bars because they were thoughtless enough to try to cash stolen travelers' checks.

"Here's a story," he said suddenly. "A little different from the others. The other day we received a letter from a man out west. It was pinned a dollar bill. The letter went on to say that, 20 years previously, he had been an employee of the American Express company, and one day a package broke open and a baseball fell out. Somehow, he wanted that baseball. So he stole it. He put it in his pocket and took it home. And then he left the company and went to work in another state. And as time went by it began to weigh on his conscience. He got, he said, 'religion'. And now he wants to atone for that misdeed of 20 years ago. So he sent in a dollar bill. And he hopes the company will forgive him."

Maroon and White Defeats Saugerties Behind G. Celuch

Score 5-2

Two Bad Errors by Upriver Nine in Third Inning Gives Kingston Three Winning Runs

Coach Cliff Miller's Maroon and White ball tossers copied their third consecutive triumph of the year yesterday afternoon in a DUSO League battle with Saugerties, 5 to 2. George Celuch, righthander, was on the mound in the absence of Earl Sleight for the locals, while Bert Fraleigh, lefty, pitched for the losers. Each allowed four hits.

A walk to George Coley in the first started the ball rolling for the Mellers. McLane followed with an attempted sacrifice but beat out this boundary through the box sending Coley to the keystone sack. Jim Ashdown laid an almost perfect bunt to Fletcher Fraleigh, who tossed out Jam at first, while both runners advanced a peg in scoring position. On a squeeze play, Vince Stoll slapped a bunt down and Fraleigh picked up the pill and tossed out the runner at first while Coley galloped home with the initial score. Jack Halstein followed with a beauty of a single into left field sending in McLane.

After Celuch whiffed Reynolds, McDowell, for Saugerties in the first, lobbed a single into center field and pilfered second while Myers was going down on strikes. Naudain banged a sharp bingle into center, scoring McDowell. On an attempt to go to second on Schneider's throw in, Naudain was erased by the relay from Schneider to Stoll to McLane, ending the frame with Saugerties scoring one run.

The Mellers were scoreless in the second, but the Cahillmen came into knot the total 2-2 in its frame. Richter fanned to open the setto and Sperl skied out to Decker in left. But a corking double into deep left center paved the way for another marker. On the positive third out, "Red" McLane permitted Holden's easy grounder to go right through him while Carnright, who doubled, scored the equalizer.

Maroon Clinches Game
In the third frame the locals served up the game when two big Saugerties misuses gave the game to Kingston. McLane started the pinto by pushing an easy grounder to the piling box but Fraleigh uncorked a wild toss to Carnright that went into right field and McLane sauntered to second. Ashdown followed with another sure out but Billy Myers scooped up the ball and heaved it against the grandstand with Earl against to third and Jim to first. Captain Vince Stoll came through in full clutch by slamming a difficult play along the third base line which was picked up by Fraleigh. Vince beat the throw to first but the pitcher's toss was wild and he went to second while McLane and Ashdown dented the rubber. After Halstein fanned, Ray Schneider came through with a perfect bingle but batters Raa and Decker left him stranded.

For the remainder of the fracas both Celuch and Fraleigh pitched a tight ball. The two fielding highlights of the game were brilliant catches by Big Al Decker, Kingston's left fielder. In the tremendous clout in center on the run and had to make a circus catch to get it. Decker dove for the ball and hit the ground but held onto it. In the fifth Al made another spectacular catch of Bert Fraleigh's drive in deep left center on the run.

The City Baseball League schedule gets under way this evening at 6 o'clock with the game between the Grundenwalds and Jones Dairy.

Indications are that tonight's contest will be packed with plenty of action and snappy baseball, entertaining what is expected to be a record turnout of fans.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman has been invited to throw out the first ball to start the league.

Contests are listed for three nights a week in the league until late in August, according to the following schedule:

He'll Graduate From School, Golf

John William Fischer, Jr.
Cincinnati (AP)—Tall, blond Johnny Fischer, rugged son of a postal carrier, fears his current argosy with the U. S. Walker cup team may be his final fling in international golf.

For Johnny, a three-time member of the American squad, graduation this summer from the University of Cincinnati law school. He'll hang out the well-known shingle in January.

"The business of making a living," he explains.

Johnny's law-school record, incidentally, is every bit as good as his golf prowess. His two-and-a-half year average is above 80. His appointment to the staff of the University of Cincinnati Law Review connotes an award for scholastic attainment.

Fischer picked up golf as a cadet around the courses of Cincinnati and northern Kentucky.

50 Years Of U. S. Golf
—By GARDNER SOULE

SEVERAL years ago Eugene Grabenstatter of Niagara Falls scored a double eagle. He stuck the golf ball away as a souvenir. Later, he ran out of his favorite brand while playing a round. He took out the lucky ball, placed it on the tee. The ball holed out for an ace.

U. S. Golfers Off
New York, May 10 (AP)—The United States Walker Cup team, headed by Captain Francis Ouimet, will sail aboard the Bremen at midnight for the British amateur championship and the cup matches.

Freddie Haas Afraid of Mud

Frederick T. Haas, Jr.
New Orleans (AP)—Young Freddie Haas, who has collected golf championship cups in almost every sector of the U. S., gets his first chance at British laurels in June with the U. S. Walker cup team.

The 22-year-old southerner won the national intercollegiate crown last summer and in February was low amateur in the Crescent City open tournament here. Freddie says the British has better hope for stormy weather during the Walker cup matches. For Haas believes, "they'll probably beat us then. None of us is a good mudder—at least I know I'm not."

An Auto and Milk Wagon Case Before Schirick and Jury

A negligence action involving an automobile and a horse and wagon was taken up for trial Monday in Supreme Court before Justice Harry L. Schirick and a jury.

Anthony Pirog, of Pine Bush, sued Emil Serpentine and another, claiming that about 7 o'clock on the morning of October 25, 1936, the Serpentine car collided with the plaintiff's milk wagon near Pine Bush, spilling the milk, injuring the horse to such an extent that it had to be destroyed, and also injuring Pirog.

Plaintiff testified he had entered the state road from a side road near Pine Bush when the car came along from the rear and collided with the wagon. Pirog said he did not know what happened as he was rendered unconscious. He said he had looked down the road and saw no car coming as he entered the state highway. He was confined to Middletown Hospital under the care of Dr. Alexander Preston for a few days.

He goes to recover for the damaged wagon, the value of the horse and for his own injuries which he claims are permanent and also for the milk which was spilled.

George F. Roesch appears for plaintiff and Bennett J. Schlessel, by Assemblyman J. Edward Conway for the defendant.

Winters Fined $10 On Conduct Charge

Joseph Winters, who disappeared from a fishing camp at Cold Brook and led the sheriff's men and state troopers in a merry chase before he was located early Monday morning sleeping on the porch of the Leahy home near Alban, was fined $10.

Winters and three companions were on a fishing trip when Winters left to cut firewood. He failed to return and his companions searched all day Sunday for him and then notified the officers. Apparently he worked the railroad tracks to Alban and picked out the Leahy porch for a sleep.

When Troopers Dunn and Chapman were called after Winters refused to leave the premises Winters contended he was being kidnapped by the officers.

Agree on Immediate Operation For Baby

Dr. Herman Colan (left), father of Baby Helaine Colan, shakes hands with Dr. Robert H. Good in Chicago after the council of medical experts decided upon an immediate operation for the child in an effort to save her from death due to glioma, a tumorous condition of the brain. Dr. Good performed the operation, removed Helaine's tumor which left eye and announced, "She's doing very well." In the center is Attorney Samuel Hoffman, spokesman for Dr. Colan.

West Shokan School Activities for Month of April

West Shokan School events for month of April were as follows:

Pupils having perfect attendance for the month of April were: Warren Hyde, Harry North, William Wagner, Dorothy Dwyer, Sara Roe, Louise Schmoedel and Margaret Wagner.

Honor members were, Warren Hyde, Harry North, William Wagner, Dorothy Dwyer, Helen Harrison and Margaret Wagner.

Health club members who qualified for the month of April were: Charles Harrison, Harry North, Louise Schmoedel, Margaret Wagner.

The following names were recorded for having set forth "best efforts" for the month: Sarah Roe and Joseph Wagner. These two children will be in charge of the visual education equipment for the month of May which now makes a monthly round, remaining one week in the district.

The pupils and the teacher are pleased to have Maxwell Ludtke back in school with them again.

Everyone shall be glad to see Arthur Smith too. Arthur due to sickness in the family and he himself being ill has been greatly missed.

The pupils of the school presented him with a delightful surprise box a short time ago.

The Arbor Day events went off nicely. The schoolhouse and the yard also received its spring cleaning. Two trees were planted on the grounds, after which a hike and a picnic on the city's property were enjoyed, finally finished with a fishing trip.

A birthday party was held after the return to school Arbor Day, it being the birthday of a young friend in the district, Anna Mae Wagner, given by her mother.

The large and delicious birthday cake which Mrs. Wagner had baked with five candles on it, seemed to be the center of attraction. Dorothy Dwyer, a pupil of the school, presented Anna Mae with a little gift on behalf of her many friends which pleased her greatly, and all hope Anna Mae will soon join the school after partaking of the cake, fruit and drink, wishing the little miss many more such birthdays and thanking Mrs. Wagner for the party, the children departed having enjoyed themselves very much.

The pupils and the teacher are planning on an educational tour in the middle of May. The trip will be made by bus.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, May 10.—The first ball game of the season was played Sunday afternoon on the Ardonia diamond between the M. F. D. and a New York team. The score was 16-13 in favor of the home team.

Miss Hilda Smith was a weekend visitor at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rhinehart entertained a number of guests at their home on Sunday.

The next Home Bureau meeting will be conducted at the home of Mrs. Frank Black, Ardonia, May 12, at 2 p. m. Mrs. Lillian Paltz is leader.

Hit by Dog
It was reported to the police department Monday that Kenneth LaTour of 110 Pine street had been bitten by a dog while on Clinton avenue.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, May 10.—Mrs. Ralph Bell of Watson Hollow road has for 19 days been ill with an attack of rheumatism. Dr. Cohn is attending her. Mrs. Bell's many friends sympathize keenly and hope for her speedy return to health.

Mrs. Daley Winchell, teacher at the Winchell District has been engaged to teach next term at the Broadhead school, succeeding Miss Cars Grider, who in turn will succeed Mrs. Lillie Quick in the Tongore District. Mrs. Quick will at the completion of her contract retire from the teaching field with an enviable record of 28 years for faithful and highly efficient service.

Mrs. Mary Hyde and son, Warren, enjoyed a visit over the weekend in Kingston at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Pratt.

"A Pearl Without Price", was the topic of a strong and touching Mother's Day sermon presented Sunday morning at the Community Baptist Church by the devoted pastor, Captain William Bender. His subject was highly commended among members of the congregation.

Members of the West Shokan Ladies' Aid report being most cordially entertained by their hosts for the day Thursday, the Saintsville Church Auxiliary.

Edward Every of Traver Hollow is giving a needed work hand to his across the valley neighbor, Grant Every, at Boiceville Heights.

Larry Kelder of New York city spent Mother's Day with his mother, Mrs. Addie Kelder, at West Shokan Heights.

Mrs. Nettie Jones and niece, Mrs. Ted Conm, of Brookville, spent Friday in Kingston.

Through the good graces of Mrs. Estelle Langer of Walkkill, her daughter, Mrs. George Decker, has kindly presented several fancy articles to the West Shokan Ladies' Aid for their annual August fair.

William Jones of Main street made a congenial Saturday afternoon call on his brother, Sylvester Jones, at West Shokan Heights.

Mrs. Fannie Boice of Main street, with her daughter, Mrs. Gardner Donahue, and children, of Krumville were visitors in Kingston on Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Wilson of Huiley and several other well groomed ladies were callers here Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Wilson is a well known and esteemed former resident.

Mrs. Delila Beadle and grandchildren of Traver Hollow, made a neighborly Sunday-evening call on Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every.

Mrs. Francis Bell visited Watson Hollow road friends over the week-end. Also attended the Mother's Day church service.

An up-to-the-minute self computing Socony gasoline electric pump was recently installed at Pete Crawford's busy Olive Bridge wayside service station.

Dr. Henry Merle Mellon and several brother ministers spent last week at "Bear Trap Spring Camp."

Mrs. Estelle Langer and son, Charles, of Walkkill, were Sunday afternoon callers upon the Davises.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Wells of Boiceville called Sunday evening on her sick uncle, Abram Constable.

Dr. Joseph Justin Cosgrove of Broadhead is reported as doggedly retracting his faltering steps back to life's highway of health.

Mrs. William Wagner of Main street entertained a group of out-of-town lady callers Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Helen Tweedy of Kingston visited her grandmother, Mrs. May McGreevey, on Sunday.

Cornelia Davis, Cobleskill State School of Home Economics student, is pleasantly assigned for her two weeks of cooperative work at the home of the school director, A. E. Champlin. The girls are sent to various sections of the state for this portion of their course.

Truckman Cecil Gray of Olive Bridge hauled a load of agricultural lime Thursday afternoon for James Harrison at West Shokan Heights. Mr. Harrison is continuing his soil conservation program begun last year.

Electrical Contractor Donald Bishop is kept busy with his line of work.

Philip and Bernard Dwyer entertained Charles Langer and E. C. Davis as callers Sunday afternoon.

Elwyn Davis has added to his antique gun collection an old muzzle loading, single barrel, smoothbore, formerly owned by "Uncle Jake" Crispell.

Volunteers to Hold Ladies' Night May 17
The Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association will hold its first Ladies' Night on Tuesday evening, May 17, when the association will be the guests of the Port Ewen Fire Department.

The meeting will be held at Spinnys on Broadway in that village, and the entertaining fire department is planning a program that will prove of interest to the women.

This is the first Ladies' Night to be held by the association since it was organized some time ago.

Trinity Missionary Meeting
The Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. P. C. MacDonald, Port Ewen, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. S. M. Watts will have charge of the program on "The Moslem World." Mrs. W. D. Hale will supplement the program with "Minarets and Prayer Rugs." A large attendance is desired.
